THE QUALITY AND STANDARDS OF THE CARE

On the basis of the evidence collected on this inspection:

The quality and standards of the care are good. The registered person meets the National Standards for under 8s day care and childminding.

WHAT SORT OF SETTING IS IT?

The childminder was registered in 2006. She works with another childminder from the same address. The childminder lives with her husband and their 20 month old child. They live in a house in Smethwick, West Midlands, close to local shops, parks, schools and public transport. The whole of the ground floor together with the upstairs bathroom is used for childminding. There is a fully enclosed garden for outdoor play.

The childminder is registered to provide care for five children at any one time and is currently minding four children, of whom all attend on a part-time basis. The childminder is a member of the National Childminding Association.

THE EFFECTIVENESS OF THE PROVISION

Helping children to be healthy

The provision is good.

Children are cared for in a warm, clean home where they learn about hygiene routines and personal care. They are helped to understand that washing their hands after using the toilet and before eating keep them healthy. There are good procedures in place to care for children who are ill, which are shared and agreed with parents at registration. The childminder is trained in administering first aid and has appropriate permissions and records in place regarding the administration of medication and accidents.

Children benefit from a healthy diet provided by the childminder. They enjoy a good variety of snacks including fruit and vegetables. Drinks are readily available which encourages children to have sufficient fluids. The childminder is aware of each child's individual dietary needs and ensures these are met.

Children enjoy a wide range of activities, which contribute to their good health. They are provided with plenty of opportunities for physical play, they have access to a good range of outdoor toys and equipment and regularly attend the local park to improve their physical skills.

Protecting children from harm or neglect and helping them stay safe

The provision is satisfactory.

Children use a range of toys and equipment that are of good quality and safe. Equipment is regularly checked for safety and is kept clean. The children are able to access resources independently and the childminder supervises their choice of toys to ensure they are safe and appropriate for their age and stage of development. Indoor and outdoor space is organised effectively, creating a child-friendly environment which enables the children to explore while being appropriately supervised.

Children are cared for in a home where their needs are given priority. The childminder assesses potential risks to children and puts procedures and practices in place to minimise these at all times. Appropriate safety equipment is used according to the age and needs of the children attending, including stair gates, socket covers and a fire guard. There are clear procedures to ensure only authorised people collect children. For example, passwords are used for extra protection. The childminder ensures children are safe when on outings and takes appropriate information such as parent contact numbers in the case of an emergency. Fire equipment such as a fire blanket and smoke detectors are regularly checked to ensure they are in good working order. Children learn about fire safety and know the procedure for evacuation in an emergency.

Children's welfare is protected through the childminder's appropriate knowledge of her role and responsibility to protect children in her care. She is aware of signs and symptoms of abuse however, to ensure the children's and her own welfare is not compromised her knowledge of child protection procedures needs to be improved.

Helping children achieve well and enjoy what they do

The provision is good.

Children are happy, settled and have formed good relationships with the childminder. This enables the children to make good progress in their personal, social and emotional development. The children are provided with a good range of activities and experiences that reflect their needs, interests and which help them to make progress in their development. For example role-play, craft, and cooking. Children are able to make decisions about their play as they choose from the various well-placed toys and activities.

The children play happily with box games such as 'connect 4'. They enjoy participating in a cooking activity making biscuits in the shape of dinosaurs and thoroughly enjoy eating the end results. The children have formed good relationships with the childminder and their development is encouraged and promoted by the good level of support and interaction received from the childminder. The childminder is aware of the 'Birth to three matters' framework and adapts activities to promote the children's learning.

The children are helped to develop confidence and self-esteem through use of praise. Good behaviour is acknowledged and the childminder ensures that it is highlighted during daily discussions with parents.

Helping children make a positive contribution

The provision is good.

Children are valued and respected as individuals and the childminder meets their needs well through daily routines, which are discussed and agreed with parents. Children choose from a good range of resources, which include worksheets, picture cards and books to develop a positive understanding of different cultures and people with disabilities.

Children play happily and are confident, sociable and secure. They respond positively to the childminder who ensures that behaviour is managed with use of praise, explanation and distraction. Children are well behaved and are encouraged to share, take turns and show consideration for others. They are listened to and the childminder values what they say, which helps them to feel good about themselves.

The childminder talks to parents on a daily basis to ensure children benefit from a two way sharing of information. Parents are given the opportunity to settle their child gradually into the childminder's home and are regularly consulted about their child's needs.

Organisation

The organisation is good.

The children feel at ease in a well-organised, homely environment. They use the ground floor of the property to enjoy a wide variety of spontaneous and planned activities and independently select from a good range of quality toys and equipment. The childminder shows commitment towards her personal development and is working towards a recognised childcare qualification.

She improves her knowledge by attending relevant short courses for example, food hygiene, first aid and 'Birth to three matters'.

Policies and procedures that are required for the efficient and safe management of the children are regularly reviewed and shared with parents. A range of written policies are shared with parents and verbal information is exchanged on a regular basis to ensure that they are well informed of their child's daily events and of the service offered. Documentation is stored securely to ensure confidentiality is maintained. Overall children's needs are met.
