Introduction

This inspection was carried out by Ofsted under Sections 49 and 50 of the Childcare Act 2006 on the quality and standards of the registered early years provision. 'Early years provision' refers to provision regulated by Ofsted for children from birth to 31 August following their fifth birthday (the early years age group). The registered person must ensure that this provision complies with the statutory framework for children's learning, development and welfare, known as the Early Years Foundation Stage.

The provider must provide a copy of this report to all parents with children at the setting where reasonably practicable. The provider must provide a copy of the report to any other person who asks for one, but may charge a fee for this service (The Childcare (Inspection) Regulations 2008 regulations 9 and 10).

The setting also makes provision for children older than the early years age group which is registered on the voluntary and/or compulsory part(s) of the Childcare Register. This report does not include an evaluation of that provision, but a comment about compliance with the requirements of the Childcare Register is included in Annex B.

Please see our website for more information about each childcare provider. We publish inspection reports, conditions of registration and details of complaints we receive where we or the provider take action to meet the requirements of registration.

Description of the childminding

The childminder was registered in 1999. She lives with her husband and adult son in Hollingworth, Hyde, close to shops, parks, schools and public transport links. The whole of the ground floor of the childminder's home is used for childminding purposes and there is an enclosed garden available for outside play.

The childminder is registered to care for a maximum of six children under eight years at any one time, no more than three of whom may be in the early years age range. The childminder is registered with Ofsted on the Early Years Register and both parts of the Childcare Register. She is currently minding three children, two of whom are in the early years age range.

The childminder collects children from the local school and attends the local toddler group on a regular basis.

The overall effectiveness of the early years provision

Overall the quality of the provision is satisfactory.

A well-developed knowledge of each child's development needs makes sure that the childminder successfully promotes children's welfare. Children are safe and secure and enjoy learning about the local environment and the world around them. The partnerships with parents are maintained through daily discussions and the use of a diary. Children progress generally well, and learn through play. Limited self-evaluation by the childminder means that priorities for development are not fully maintained, resulting in a provision that responds to some but not all user needs. Other areas for improvement have been identified and particularly focus on the observation and assessment process and updating required documentation, as well as developing links with other providers of the Early Years Foundation Stage Framework.

What steps need to be taken to improve provision further?

To meet the specific requirements of the EYFS, the registered person must:

- request written permission from parents for seeking emergency medical advice or treatment (Safeguarding and promoting children's welfare). 06/10/2011

To further improve the early years provision the registered person should:

- ensure the observation and assessments are meaningful, spontaneous and link to next steps and planning
- develop links with other providers of the Early Years Foundation Stage to ensure continuity and coherence of children's learning and development.

The effectiveness of leadership and management of the early years provision

The childminder gives priority to safeguarding children; she has a good understanding of child protection and her responsibilities if she is concerned about a child's welfare. Children's health, safety and well-being are maintained due to the implementation of policies and procedures that are individual to the setting. Risk assessments on the premises, and also for outings, ensure that safety is monitored and reviewed. Fire drills are practised regularly, which ensures children understand what to do should the need to evacuate the premises arise. All required records and documentation are in place. However, written parental permission to seek emergency medical advice or treatment has not been sought and this is a breach of requirements.

The childminder actively promotes equality and diversity in her practice to ensure all children have an understanding of the way other people live. A good range of resources are deployed well and ensure that children have free access to them. The childminder shares information on a daily basis with parents. Parents provide positive feedback and are happy with the care their children receive. Links with schools are achieved verbally. Progress is not yet shared with other providers the children attend, which impacts on their individual learning and development.

The childminder has a basic knowledge of the Early Years Foundation Stage framework. Observation and assessment of each child's progress are in the early stages and are not meaningful to each child's individual learning needs or linked to next steps or planning, which has a negative impact on the learning and development each child receives. The childminder has a paediatric first aid certificate and has attended other relevant training courses since the last inspection, which impacts on the continuous improvement of the provision.

The quality and standards of the early years provision and outcomes for children

Children are happy and settled. The childminder's supportive and caring manner enables children to feel safe and secure and form trusting relationships. Children are eager to attend and they make some progress in their learning. Emphasis is placed on children learning through play, exploration and fun. There are a good selection of age-appropriate toys and activities available for children to choose from. This ensures all children are able to participate in activities, and as a result they make progress in their development and are motivated to learn. Children are enthusiastic and independent. The relaxed, homely environment enables them to freely express themselves.

Children are confident and generally relate well with each other and the childminder. They express some forms of unwanted behaviour and are gently reminded by the childminder, with explanations of what is expected in order to keep themselves and others safe. Their understanding of safety issues is maintained through regular discussions, fire drills and road safety. Children are independent and interact well with the childminder. They access books and electronic toys, puzzles, computers and magnets, which promote their problem solving and reasoning. Children develop a positive attitude towards diversity and take part in activities linked to various festivals. For example, they have access to a range of dressing up clothes, books, dolls, puzzles and musical instruments. Children develop a keen interest in nature during their time in the garden, on trips to local farms and on walks in the countryside. They also access large equipment on the park, which helps them to develop control and coordination over their bodies. Children eagerly express their creativity as they regularly access a range of materials to create pictures, such as glitter and coloured paper.

Children demonstrate an understanding of the importance of following personal hygiene routines and healthy eating. They have opportunities to engage in a range of physical activities, both indoors and out, and consequently gain a sound knowledge of how regular exercise impacts on maintaining a healthy lifestyle. The childminder provides home-cooked meals for the children and fruit for snacks. They have continuous access to drinking water to enable them to satisfy their thirst when needed.
