Introduction

This inspection was carried out by Ofsted under Sections 49 and 50 of the Childcare Act 2006 on the quality and standards of the registered early years provision. 'Early years provision' refers to provision regulated by Ofsted for children from birth to 31 August following their fifth birthday (the early years age group). The registered person must ensure that this provision complies with the statutory framework for children's learning, development and welfare, known as the Early Years Foundation Stage.

The provider must provide a copy of this report to all parents with children at the setting where reasonably practicable. The provider must provide a copy of the report to any other person who asks for one, but may charge a fee for this service (The Childcare (Inspection) Regulations 2008 regulations 9 and 10).

The setting also makes provision for children older than the early years age group which is registered on the voluntary and/or compulsory part(s) of the Childcare Register. This report does not include an evaluation of that provision, but a comment about compliance with the requirements of the Childcare Register is included in Annex B.

Please see our website for more information about each childcare provider. We publish inspection reports, conditions of registration and details of complaints we receive where we or the provider take action to meet the requirements of registration.

Description of the setting

Newsome Pre-School Playgroup is a registered charity run by a voluntary management committee consisting mainly of parents and carers. It was registered in 1992 and operates from St John's Church hall in Newsom, near Huddersfield. Children have access to a secure enclosed outdoor play area. A maximum of 26 children aged under eight years may attend the setting at any one time. The setting currently takes children from two to five years of age. The setting is open Tuesday to Friday from 8.30am to 3pm term time only. The setting serves the local and surrounding areas and children attend for a variety of sessions.

There are currently 31 children on roll who are all within the early years age range. Of these, 15 are in receipt of funding for early education. The setting supports children who speak English as an additional language. The setting is registered by Ofsted on the Early Years Register and the compulsory and voluntary parts of the Childcare Register.

There are six members of staff, including the manager, who work directly with the children. Of these, the manager holds a qualifcation at level 6 in early years and is currenly working towards Early Years Professional Status. The deputy holds a qualifcation at level 5 in early years, three members of staff hold a qualification at level 3 in early years, one holds a qualification at level 2 and is currently working towards a qualifcation at level 3 in early years. The setting is a member of the Pre-School Learning Alliance and receives support from the local authority.

The overall effectiveness of the early years provision

Overall the quality of the provision is good.

Children are happy, confident and eager to learn at this very welcoming setting. Staff are motivated, work well as a team and strive to offer an inclusive environment where all children are valued as individuals. Children make good progress in most areas of their learning and development as they engage in a wide range of enjoyable activities. Overall, policies and procedures are thorough and relevant, and are implemented effectively to safeguard and promote children's welfare. Effective partnerships with parents, carers and other early years professionals have been established, ensuring children's needs are fully supported. The setting is led by a dedicated and enthusiastic manager who, together with the staff team demonstrates a positive attitude towards sustained and continuous improvement.

What steps need to be taken to improve provision further?

To further improve the early years provision the registered person should:

review procedures to ensure that records of the information used to assess

- staff suitability includes any medical or health issues
- enhance the mathematical potential of the outdoor area by extending the range of signs, symbols and labels, to reflect a 'number rich' environment and encourage children to be creative in finding and solving problems
- develop further opportunities for children to show interest in different occupations and ways of life, by inviting people who work in the community to talk to children about their roles.

The effectiveness of leadership and management of the early years provision

Children are effectively safeguarded because all staff have a good understanding of safety and child protection issues. Detailed policies and procedures are fully implemented to ensure children's safety in the indoor and outdoor areas. Thorough risk assessments are carried out regularly to minimise danger and keep children safe. There are clear systems in place for the recruitment and vetting of all staff and adults who work with the children. However, records of the information used to assess staff suitability do not include any medical or health information. Staff are vigilant in supervising the children to ensure their safety. A good range of equipment and resources are used that are safe and suitable for the children's ages.

Children benefit from the warm and relaxed relationships that have been established between their parents and the staff. The daily exchange of information ensures that children's changing needs are consistently met, particularly for children who speak English as an additional language. Parents access a wide range of information regarding the setting through the use of a parents' notice board, regular newsletters and access to policies and procedures. In addition, staff conduct home visits before children start to ease the settling in process. Feedback from parents and carers shows that they find staff welcoming and approachable. This is because they are pleased with the care and play opportunities that are provided for their children. The manager and staff work successfully in partnership with other early years professionals and the local schools reception class teacher to share ongoing information. Consequently, this has a positive impact on the children's future needs as many of the children move on to attend the school where they will see familiar adults and be acquainted with their new learning environment.

Staff are positive role models, work well as a team and strive to improve their practice. Recommendations made at the previous inspection have been fully addressed and have had a positive impact on the outcomes for children attending the setting. A good self-evaluation system, together with parent questionnaires, helps staff to identify the setting's strengths and areas for improvement. There is a pro-active and shared vision for inclusive practice, ensuring that every child can achieve as well as they can regardless of their background. As a result, children are fully included and integrated into the setting. The manager and staff actively promote equality and diversity in all aspects of the provision. Staff are committed towards continuing their own professional development and regularly attend relevant training courses to improve their knowledge and skills. Consequently, children's care and well-being are further enhanced.

The quality and standards of the early years provision and outcomes for children

Children are familiar with the environment, settle quickly on arrival and are eager to learn. They have many opportunities to make choices about their own play and learning as they freely access a wide range of activities and resources. There is a good balance of adult-led and child-initiated activities that result in children being active learners. Staff observe children, listen carefully to what they say and record information on a daily basis. Information is evaluated and used effectively to inform future planning. Children interact positively with their peers and are keen to share their ideas with their friends and staff.

Children make good progress towards the early learning goals as they access a wide range of first-hand learning experiences. For example, they eagerly and confidently play on the climbing frame and slide, paint their hands before pressing them on to paper to make leaves on a tree, roll out dough to create birthday buns and use a range of role play resources to make dinner for their babies. Outside, children enjoy using nets to fish for numbers in the water tray, pour water down a series of pipes and laugh enthusiastically with their friends as they use spray bottles and paint to make paintings. Children's knowledge of the wider world is promoted well through various practical activities and resources, which reflect cultural diversity and disability. However, opportunities to invite people into the setting to raise children's interest of different occupations and ways of life in the local community have not been fully explored. Children are developing a love for books as they freely access a wide range of interesting stories in the book corner and enjoy story time. They are beginning to learn that print carries meaning as they self-register on arrival and are encouraged to write their name on their own work. Children enjoy music and movement as they join in with a range of songs and action rhymes and play a variety of musical instruments. Their creativity is supported through good access to a range of role play equipment, construction toys and to a wide range of collage materials, stencils and chalks. Children's understanding of number, size and shape is developing well through everyday indoor activities. They confidently count how many coloured bears they have and competently recognised shapes such as squares, triangles and circles. However, the range of signs, symbols and labels in the outside area is less well developed. Therefore, this impacts on children's opportunities to problem solve and appreciate a number rich environment.

Children behave very well and respond positively to the boundaries set, such as helping to tidy up before group and snack time. Gentle reminders from staff help children develop a sense of right and wrong. They are encouraged to share, take turns and be kind to each other. Children demonstrate a growing awareness of their own health and hygiene needs. They are fully aware of the importance of washing their hands before snacks and after using the toilet. They enjoy a good range of healthy snacks each day, such as, crackers, malt loaf, toast, fresh fruit and vegetable sticks. They also freely access drinking water throughout the session, ensuring that they remain hydrated. Staff encourage children to keep themselves safe as they discuss the appropriate use of equipment and learn about road safety while out walking. Children demonstrate that they are acquiring skills that will help them in the future and prepare them for their transition from the setting into school.
