The quality and standards of the early years provision

This provision is good

- Children are involved in planning. This ensures the wide range of resources on offer to children encourages them to follow their interests and supports their preferences for learning.
- Accurate observation and assessment of children's learning identifies their next steps and this means that good teaching of planned adult-led activities provides them with challenges that help them to make good progress.
- Generally, strong partnerships with the local schools, parents and other professionals support the close monitoring of the club's practice and this helps them to improve their service to meet the changing needs of the families who use it.
- Staff have a good understanding of their roles and responsibilities in regard to the safeguarding and welfare requirements, including child protection issues.

It is not yet outstanding because

- In some instances, staff miss opportunities to use questions to help children make connections in their learning and this means their thoughts and ideas are not explored in as much detail as they could be.
- There is scope to improve children's developing independence skills particularly during snack and meal times.

Information about this inspection

Inspections of registered early years provision are:

- scheduled at least once in every inspection cycle – the current cycle ends on 31 July 2016
- scheduled more frequently where Ofsted identifies a need to do so, for example where provision was previously judged inadequate
- brought forward in the inspection cycle where Ofsted has received information that suggests the provision may not be meeting the legal requirements of the Early Years Foundation Stage or where assessment of the provision identifies a need for early inspection
- prioritised where we have received information that the provision is not meeting the requirements of the Early Years Foundation Stage and which suggests children may not be safe
- scheduled at the completion of an investigation into failure to comply with the requirements of the Early Years Foundation Stage.

The provision is also registered on the voluntary and compulsory parts of the Childcare Register. This report includes a judgment about compliance with the requirements of that register.

Inspection activities

- The inspector observed activities in the playrooms and outdoor areas.
- The inspector completed a joint observation with the manager.
- The inspector spoke to the manager and staff at appropriate times throughout the inspection.

Information about the setting

Vale of Belvoir Out of School Club was registered in 2013 and is on the Early Years Register. It is situated in the Sure Start building on the Belvoir High School campus in Leicestershire and is owned by Belvoir and Melton Academy Trust. The club serves the local area and is accessible to all children. Children have access to four rooms within the Sure Start building and also have direct access to an enclosed outdoor play area and the school field and main sports hall. The club employs four members of childcare staff. Of these, three hold appropriate early years qualifications at level 3, one is unqualified. The club has 112 children on roll of whom 16 are in the early years age group. The club opens Monday to Friday term time only and for two weeks during the summer holidays. During term time, sessions are from 7.45am until 9am and 3.15pm until 6pm, Monday to Friday. During the school holidays sessions are from 8am until 6pm. Children attend for a variety of sessions.

What the setting needs to do to improve further

To further improve the quality of the early years provision the provider should:

- extend children's learning by making more use of open questions during small group activities to help them share their thoughts and ideas in detail, therefore, helping them to make connections between their different learning experiences
- enhance opportunities for children to further develop their independence skills at snack and meal time, for example, by pouring their own drinks and serving themselves.

Inspection judgements

How well the early years provision meets the needs of the range of children who attend

Staff in the club provide a wide range of interesting resources that support children's independent play and offer them a choice of adult-led activities, such as art and craft. Children are involved in planning and as a result, resources reflect their interests. For example, they can explore box modelling to create houses. The youngest children enjoy looking at books and reading stories in the designated book area. Staff include them in telling the stories using books they have chosen from the library. This promotes their communication skills and supports their interest in literacy. It also helps them to understand characters and how stories are structured. Staff use conversation during children's chosen play and adult-led activities to develop communication and language skills as well as exploring children's ideas. During some focused activities however, staff do not always make good use of open-ended questioning to help children make links between different aspects of their learning. This means that children's ideas and knowledge are not always fully explored in detail. Nevertheless, observations made by key persons about children's learning show they are making good progress across all areas.

Staff obtain information about children's learning from parents during induction visits. This means that they are knowledgeable about their interests and their preferences for learning. The majority of staff in the club hold relevant early years qualifications. As a result, they have a good understanding of the learning and development requirements and they have the skills to support children's learning. Consequently, they can plan activities across the seven areas of learning that take into account children's skills and help them to make progress towards the early learning goals. For example, children develop their critical thinking skills and learn to solve problems by using sized containers in the outdoor planting area. They also explore the natural environment in the wooded area of the outdoor play environment. There is a good balance of child-led play and adult-led activities. This ensures children enjoy independent play while benefitting from the good teaching skills of experienced staff. For example, they enjoy playing outside together where they listen to instructions and learn about rules.

Through daily discussions staff share activities with parents and relevant information about children's learning in school. When they collect children from the club, parents join their children in their activities, which means they are able to see what their child is learning and interested in. Parents are confident that their children are happy in the club because they feel the activities provided reflect those they would enjoy at home after a day at school. Partnership with the school means there are suitable systems in place for complimenting and supporting children with their next steps in learning. As a result, they enjoy consistency in their care and learning during their time in the club.

The contribution of the early years provision to the well-being of children

The club provides a relaxed, welcoming environment where children can enjoy time with their friends after their day at school. The space is used well and this ensures children have quiet areas where they can unwind and rest. Robust relationships with parents and the school ensure detailed information about children's care needs is shared. The manager conducts regular meetings with the team. This makes certain essential information about children's care is shared with the key person and the role of each member of staff during the session is made clear. As a result, supervision levels are very good, children are engaged well and kept safe. Children show that they are happy and confident as they move around the setting. They demonstrate strong attachments with staff that promote their well-being.

Children who attend the club are predominantly from the local primary school and they are developing robust relationships with their peers. This helps to prepare them for the larger social environment, which they will experience in the next stage of their learning, as they progress through school. Everyday practices, such as hanging their coats up and eating together at snack time mirror those they experience in school. This means that they enjoy consistency in their daily routines. Staff are very good role models and they demonstrate clear expectations for children's behaviour. All staff have the ethos that children often demonstrate unwanted behaviour if they are bored and they endeavour to make sure all children are engaged well and occupied. The club uses simple rules for the children's behaviour to replicate a homely environment. Staff help children to resolve disagreements and this ensures they receive clear and consistent messages. The children collect points on their club 'credit card' for positive behaviour and achievements, which can be exchanged for rewards. This means that they are developing a robust understanding of right and wrong and as a result, children's behaviour is very good.

Children's safety and well-being is promoted well during play and everyday routines. They are encouraged to risk assess for themselves. For example, they learn how to use play equipment, such as slides safely and they are encouraged to consider hazards during their play. As a result, they are learning how to keep themselves safe. Children enjoy outdoor play everyday. The space is utilised well to help children test their skills and try new challenges. The club has a range of resources to promote children's physical development in the outdoor area, such as, a natural area for building bug homes and den building, slides, football goal posts, and a developing mud kitchen area. This means that children can make choices about their play while developing their physical skills. Staff are enthusiastic and actively participate in children's play. This encourages even the most reluctant children to join in. Clear, age-appropriate explanations help them to understand the needs of others and as a result, they build on the skills they need for the larger school environment. The children have healthy snacks and home cooked meals for dinner, the menu for which is decided by the children. There is, however, scope to extend children's independence skills during snack and meal times to provide children with even more opportunities to do things for themselves, such as pouring their own drinks and serving themselves. They are encouraged to develop good hygiene routines, such as washing their hands and this means that they develop a good understanding of how to stay healthy.

The effectiveness of the leadership and management of the early years provision Robust recruitment procedures ensure all staff are suitable to work with children. Staff have completed safeguarding training and are able to demonstrate a good knowledge of safeguarding issues, including signs of abuse. The manager is the designated safeguarding officer. There are clear lines of accountability in place and procedures for reporting concerns about children or the operation of the club are clear. The premises are checked daily and the club has completed suitable risk assessments for the premises and for places they visit during school holidays. The identification of visitors is checked for further security. Children's attendance, including when they arrive and leave, are recorded and this means that ratios are maintained. All staff hold a current first-aid certificate, which means that they can give appropriate treatment if there is an accident to a child in their care.

When children enter the club, policies and procedures are shared with parents and this contributes to promoting children's safety. For example, the use of mobile telephones and cameras are forbidden. The partnerships in place with the schools ensure that accurate information is shared with the club about children's time in school. This means that staff can share information with parents about some of the milestones children have achieved and the activities they enjoy. As a result, children enjoy consistency in their learning and records show they are making strong progress towards the early learning goals. The manager monitors children's progress by checking observations to verify no gaps in their development.

The manager is proud of the strong community links they have developed and the club is well known with local parents. The manager seeks the views of parents and children and the team take their views into account when evaluating the service they provide. The manager has a good understanding of the club's strengths and is keen to address any areas where their service can improve. The manager works with staff to address areas for improvement and this means that the club is continually improving to benefit the children who attend.

What inspection judgements mean

Registered early years provision

Grade	Judgement	Description
Grade 1	Outstanding	Outstanding provision is highly effective in meeting the needs of all children exceptionally well. This ensures that children are very well prepared for the next stage of their learning.
Grade 2	Good	Good provision is effective in delivering provision that meets the needs of all children well. This ensures children are ready for the next stage of their learning.
Grade 3	Requires improvement	The provision is not giving children a good standard of early years education and/or there are minor breaches of the safeguarding and welfare requirements of the Early Years Foundation Stage. It will be monitored and inspected within twelve months of the date of this inspection.
Grade 4	Inadequate	Provision that is inadequate requires significant improvement and/or enforcement action. The provision is failing to give children an acceptable standard of early years education and/or is not meeting the safeguarding and welfare requirements of the Early Years Foundation Stage. It will be monitored and inspected again within six months of the date of this inspection.
Met		The provision has no children on roll. The inspection judgement is that the provider continues to meet the requirements for registration.
Not met		The provision has no children on roll. The inspection judgement is that the provider does not meet the requirements for registration.

Inspection

This inspection was carried out by Ofsted under sections 49 and 50 of the Childcare Act 2006 on the quality and standards of provision that is registered on the Early Years Register. The registered person must ensure that this provision complies with the statutory framework for children's learning, development and care, known as the Early Years Foundation Stage.

Type of provision

For the purposes of this inspection the following definitions apply:

Full-time provision is that which operates for more than three hours. These are usually known as nurseries, nursery schools and pre-schools and must deliver the Early Years Foundation Stage. They are registered on the Early Years Register and pay the higher fee for registration.

Sessional provision operates for more than two hours but does not exceed three hours in any one day. These are usually known as pre-schools, kindergartens or nursery schools and must deliver the Early Years Foundation Stage. They are registered on the Early Years Register and pay the lower fee for registration.

Childminders care for one or more children where individual children attend for a period of more than two hours in any one day. They operate from domestic premises, which are usually the childminder's own home. They are registered on the Early Years Register and must deliver the Early Years Foundation Stage.

Out of school provision may be sessional or full-time provision and is delivered before or after school and/or in the summer holidays. They are registered on the Early Years Register and must deliver the Early Years Foundation Stage. Where children receive their Early Years Foundation Stage in school these providers do not have to deliver the learning and development requirements in full but should complement the experiences children receive in school.

The Office for Standards in Education, Children's Services and Skills (Ofsted) regulates and inspects to achieve excellence in the care of children and young people, and in education and skills for learners of all ages. It regulates and inspects childcare and children's social care, and inspects the Children and Family Court Advisory Support Service (Cafcass), schools, colleges, initial teacher training, work-based learning and skills training, adult and community learning, and education and training in prisons and other secure establishments. It assesses council children's services, and inspects services for looked after children, safeguarding and child protection.
