Summary of key findings for parents

The provision meets requirements

- The childminder has a good knowledge and understanding of the Early Years Foundation Stage. She has systems in place for observing and assessing children's progress, and is knowledgeable of how to use this information to plan activities to help children make progress.
- The childminder has a good understanding of how to safeguard children. She has suitable policies in place and discusses the procedures she would follow should she have any welfare concerns.
- The premises are safe and secure. This is because the childminder has thorough risk assessment procedures in place. The childminder holds a current paediatric first-aid qualification to enable her to manage any minor accidents.
- The childminder demonstrates a good knowledge and understanding of how to engage and work with parents so that learning is shared between her provision and home.
- The childminder knows how to promote children's physical and emotional well-being. For example, by planning visits to the local park, implementing hygiene practices and suitably managing children's behaviour.
- The childminder understands the importance of reflecting on her provision. She has a positive attitude towards attending training and driving improvement in her practice to benefit the children in her care.

There were no children present when this inspection took place. The findings in this report are based on evidence gathered from discussions with those who care for the children and an inspection of the premises, equipment and relevant documentation. Where there are no children present, no judgement is made on the quality of the early years provision as there is no reliable evidence on which to assess its impact on children. The report states whether the provider continues to meet the requirements of registration.

Inspection activities

- The inspector toured the premises intended for the use of childminding.
- The inspector held discussions with the childminder to assess her knowledge and understanding of the statutory requirements.
- The inspector viewed relevant documentation, including suitability checks, policies, procedures, and sampled children's progress records.
- The inspector held discussions with the childminder about her processes for evaluation and future plans for improvement.

This inspection was carried out by Ofsted under sections 49 and 50 of the Childcare Act 2006 on the quality and standards of provision that is registered on the Early Years Register. The registered person must ensure that this provision complies with the statutory framework for children's learning, development and care, known as the Early Years Foundation Stage.

Any complaints about the inspection or the report should be made following the procedures set out in the guidance 'Complaints procedure: raising concerns and making complaints about Ofsted', which is available from Ofsted's website: www.gov.uk/government/organisations/ofsted. If you would like Ofsted to send you a copy of the guidance, please telephone 0300 123 4234, or email enquiries@ofsted.gov.uk.

The Office for Standards in Education, Children's Services and Skills (Ofsted) regulates and inspects to achieve excellence in the care of children and young people, and in education and skills for learners of all ages. It regulates and inspects childcare and children's social care, and inspects the Children and Family Court Advisory Support Service (Cafcass), schools, colleges, initial teacher training, work-based learning and skills training, adult and community learning, and education and training in prisons and other secure establishments. It assesses council children's services, and inspects services for looked after children, safeguarding and child protection.
