Summary of key findings for parents

The provision meets requirements

- The childminder understands the requirements. She knows the need to make sure that her home is safe and secure for children's use. She knows how to carry out risk assessments to reduce hazards to children in and outside of her home.
- The childminder understands the need to provide a range of furniture, equipment and toys that are safe, maintained in good condition and developmentally appropriate for children of differing ages, abilities and backgrounds.
- Safeguarding is effective. The childminder understands child protection issues and knows how to proceed if a child is at risk of harm. She understands how to promote children's health and well-being.
- The childminder understands the importance of working in partnership with parents and other providers to exchange information regularly about children to help meet children's needs.
- The childminder understands how to help children learn to behave responsibly. She knows how to plan activities according to children's needs to help them progress and prepare them for school.
- The childminder has addressed previous actions and recommendations. She understands the need to improve her childcare practice through self-evaluation and training.

There were no children present when this inspection took place. The findings in this report are based on evidence gathered from discussions with those who care for the children and an inspection of the premises, equipment and relevant documentation. Where there are no children present, no judgement is made on the quality of the early years provision as there is no reliable evidence on which to assess its impact on children. The report states whether the provider continues to meet the requirements of registration.

Inspection activities

- The inspector had discussions with the childminder about her childcare practices.
- The inspector had a tour of the premises available for childminding with the childminder.
- The inspector viewed the furniture, toys and equipment available for children's use.
- The inspector sampled a range of documentation, including qualification and training certificates, assessment reports and information records.

This inspection was carried out by Ofsted under sections 49 and 50 of the Childcare Act 2006 on the quality and standards of provision that is registered on the Early Years Register. The registered person must ensure that this provision complies with the statutory framework for children's learning, development and care, known as the Early Years Foundation Stage.

Any complaints about the inspection or the report should be made following the procedures set out in the guidance 'Complaints procedure: raising concerns and making complaints about Ofsted', which is available from Ofsted's website: www.gov.uk/government/organisations/ofsted. If you would like Ofsted to send you a copy of the guidance, please telephone 0300 123 4234, or email enquiries@ofsted.gov.uk.

The Office for Standards in Education, Children's Services and Skills (Ofsted) regulates and inspects to achieve excellence in the care of children and young people, and in education and skills for learners of all ages. It regulates and inspects childcare and children's social care, and inspects the Children and Family Court Advisory Support Service (Cafcass), schools, colleges, initial teacher training, work-based learning and skills training, adult and community learning, and education and training in prisons and other secure establishments. It assesses council children's services, and inspects services for looked after children, safeguarding and child protection.
