Summary of key findings for parents

The provision meets requirements

- The childminder understands how to use the information from observations and assessments to plan for children's individual needs and help them make progress. She knows how to provide a suitable range of resources for children of different ages, abilities and backgrounds.
- The childminder recognises the value of working in partnership with parents to provide a consistent approach. She knows the importance of providing parents with regular feedback about children's development.
- The childminder and her assistant understand the need to provide children with daily outdoor experiences to promote their physical and good health.
- The childminder and her assistant know how to prepare children for the next stage in their learning and their move to nursery or school. They understand the importance of promoting their independence and personal care skills.
- The childminder and her assistant have a secure knowledge of the possible signs that would cause them concern about a child's welfare. They know the procedures to follow should they have any safeguarding concerns, including if an allegation is made against anyone living or working on the premises.
- The childminder knows how to conduct thorough risk assessments of her environment to support children to be able to play safely in their surroundings.

There were no children present when this inspection took place. The findings in this report are based on evidence gathered from discussions with those who care for the children and an inspection of the premises, equipment and relevant documentation. Where there are no children present, no judgement is made on the quality of the early years provision as there is no reliable evidence on which to assess its impact on children. The report states whether the provider continues to meet the requirements of registration.

Inspection activities

- The inspector held discussions with the childminder and her assistant about their knowledge and understanding of the safeguarding and welfare, and learning and development requirements.
- The inspector viewed the premises used for childminding.
- The inspector viewed a sample of documentation that the childminder and her assistant use for childminding, including the first-aid certificates and public liability insurance.

This inspection was carried out by Ofsted under sections 49 and 50 of the Childcare Act 2006 on the quality and standards of provision that is registered on the Early Years Register. The registered person must ensure that this provision complies with the statutory framework for children's learning, development and care, known as the Early Years Foundation Stage.

Any complaints about the inspection or the report should be made following the procedures set out in the guidance 'Complaints procedure: raising concerns and making complaints about Ofsted', which is available from Ofsted's website: www.gov.uk/government/organisations/ofsted. If you would like Ofsted to send you a copy of the guidance, please telephone 0300 123 4234, or email enquiries@ofsted.gov.uk.

The Office for Standards in Education, Children's Services and Skills (Ofsted) regulates and inspects to achieve excellence in the care of children and young people, and in education and skills for learners of all ages. It regulates and inspects childcare and children's social care, and inspects the Children and Family Court Advisory Support Service (Cafcass), schools, colleges, initial teacher training, work-based learning and skills training, adult and community learning, and education and training in prisons and other secure establishments. It assesses council children's services, and inspects services for looked after children, safeguarding and child protection.
