Summary of key findings for parents

The provision meets requirements

- The childminder understands how to assess and monitor development. She knows how to plan a range of interesting and exciting activities for children to help them make progress across all areas of learning.
- The childminder understands the importance of building partnerships with parents and where there is shared care with other providers. She knows sharing information helps to ensure that she consistently plans for children's learning and improves their outcomes.
- The childminder understands the importance of promoting good manners, kindness and respect for others. She knows teaching children right from wrong supports their good behaviour and helps their feelings of well-being. It is also important in preparing children for school.
- The childminder understands how to safeguard children. She understands her responsibilities to be alert to issues which impact on children's safety and feelings of well-being. She maintains the suitability of those who regularly come into contact with them.
- The childminder is knowledgeable about why self-evaluation is central to developing and improving her service. She understands the importance of collecting the views of parents and others to help in this process.

There were no children present when this inspection took place. The findings in this report are based on evidence gathered from discussions with those who care for the children and an inspection of the premises, equipment and relevant documentation. Where there are no children present, no judgement is made on the quality of the early years provision as there is no reliable evidence on which to assess its impact on children. The report states whether the provider continues to meet the requirements of registration.

Inspection activities

- The inspector discussed with the childminder how she intends to deliver the educational programmes for children.
- The inspector looked at policies and documents the provider will use when caring for children.
- The inspector discussed with the childminder their self-evaluation and improvement plan.

This inspection was carried out by Ofsted under sections 49 and 50 of the Childcare Act 2006 on the quality and standards of provision that is registered on the Early Years Register. The registered person must ensure that this provision complies with the statutory framework for children's learning, development and care, known as the Early Years Foundation Stage.

Any complaints about the inspection or the report should be made following the procedures set out in the guidance 'Complaints procedure: raising concerns and making complaints about Ofsted', which is available from Ofsted's website: www.gov.uk/government/organisations/ofsted. If you would like Ofsted to send you a copy of the guidance, please telephone 0300 123 4234, or email enquiries@ofsted.gov.uk.

The Office for Standards in Education, Children's Services and Skills (Ofsted) regulates and inspects to achieve excellence in the care of children and young people, and in education and skills for learners of all ages. It regulates and inspects childcare and children's social care, and inspects the Children and Family Court Advisory Support Service (Cafcass), schools, colleges, initial teacher training, work-based learning and skills training, adult and community learning, and education and training in prisons and other secure establishments. It assesses council children's services, and inspects services for looked after children, safeguarding and child protection.
