

Childminder Report

Inspection date	25 January 2016
Previous inspection date	3 February 2011

The quality and standards of the early years provision	This inspection:	Met
	Previous inspection:	Good	2

Summary of key findings for parents

The provision meets requirements

- The childminder understands the requirements of the Early Years Foundation Stage, and she knows how to promote all areas of learning and development.
- The childminder knows child protection procedures and her role in keeping children safe and free from harm. She keeps her knowledge up-to-date and holds a valid first-aid certificate.
- The childminder understands the importance of working in partnership with parents to support children's learning and to meet their physical needs.
- The childminder knows the need to observe and assess children's development. She understands the importance of checking children's progress and of preparing them for school, whatever their different individual learning needs.
- The childminder recognises the importance of being a positive role model to children and of promoting their positive behaviour. She understands the importance of teaching children to respect others and to develop their knowledge of the wider world.
- The childminder understands the importance of promoting children's personal independence, and of teaching them the importance of a healthy lifestyle. She knows how to promote children's good health and the need to provide daily outdoor activities.

There were no children present when this inspection took place. The findings in this report are based on evidence gathered from discussions with those who care for the children and an inspection of the premises, equipment and relevant documentation. Where there are no children present, no judgement is made on the quality of the early years provision as there is no reliable evidence on which to assess its impact on children. The report states whether the provider continues to meet the requirements of registration.

Inspection activities

- The inspector held discussions with the childminder to determine her knowledge and understanding of the learning and development, and safeguarding and welfare requirements.
- The inspector sampled the childminder's written documentation, including her policies and procedures, and training certificates.
- The inspector looked at the spaces, toys and resources available for childminding.

This inspection was carried out by Ofsted under sections 49 and 50 of the Childcare Act 2006 on the quality and standards of provision that is registered on the Early Years Register. The registered person must ensure that this provision complies with the statutory framework for children's learning, development and care, known as the Early Years Foundation Stage.

Any complaints about the inspection or the report should be made following the procedures set out in the guidance 'Complaints procedure: raising concerns and making complaints about Ofsted', which is available from Ofsted's website: www.gov.uk/government/organisations/ofsted. If you would like Ofsted to send you a copy of the guidance, please telephone 0300 123 4234, or email enquiries@ofsted.gov.uk.

The Office for Standards in Education, Children's Services and Skills (Ofsted) regulates and inspects to achieve excellence in the care of children and young people, and in education and skills for learners of all ages. It regulates and inspects childcare and children's social care, and inspects the Children and Family Court Advisory Support Service (Cafcass), schools, colleges, initial teacher training, work-based learning and skills training, adult and community learning, and education and training in prisons and other secure establishments. It assesses council children's services, and inspects services for looked after children, safeguarding and child protection.
