Summary of key findings for parents

The provision meets requirements

- The childminder has a good understanding of how to keep children safe. She knows the signs and symptoms that may cause concern regarding a child's well-being and knows the procedures to follow to safeguard their welfare.
- The childminder knows how to identify children's starting points. She understands how to use observation and assessment of their learning in order to plan activities that challenge and help them achieve their next steps in learning.
- The childminder has a good understanding of how to promote and support children's physical well-being. She recognises the importance of teaching children about healthy lifestyles and the benefits of a healthy balanced diet and regular exercise.
- The childminder knows how to support children's emotional development. For example, encouraging children to be independent and learn how to care for their personal needs to help them to be ready for the next stage in their learning.
- The childminder understands the importance of keeping up to date with training and knowledge of the requirements. She updates her policies and procedures to ensure they reflect current guidance and legislation.

There were no children present when this inspection took place. The findings in this report are based on evidence gathered from discussions with those who care for the children and an inspection of the premises, equipment and relevant documentation. Where there are no children present, no judgement is made on the quality of the early years provision as there is no reliable evidence on which to assess its impact on children. The report states whether the provider continues to meet the requirements of registration.

Inspection activities

- The inspector held discussions with the childminder about her knowledge of the Early Years Foundation Stage requirements.
- The inspector sampled documents that the childminder has available for childminding.
- The inspector viewed all areas of the home used for childminding.

The childminder registered in February 2008. She lives in Abbey Wood in the Royal London borough of Greenwich. The childminder works Monday to Friday, 7.45am until 6pm, all year round. At the time of the inspection there were no children on roll in the early years age group.

This inspection was carried out by Ofsted under sections 49 and 50 of the Childcare Act 2006 on the quality and standards of provision that is registered on the Early Years Register. The registered person must ensure that this provision complies with the statutory framework for children's learning, development and care, known as the Early Years Foundation Stage.

Any complaints about the inspection or the report should be made following the procedures set out in the guidance 'Complaints procedure: raising concerns and making complaints about Ofsted', which is available from Ofsted's website: www.gov.uk/government/organisations/ofsted. If you would like Ofsted to send you a copy of the guidance, please telephone 0300 123 4234, or email enquiries@ofsted.gov.uk.

The Office for Standards in Education, Children's Services and Skills (Ofsted) regulates and inspects to achieve excellence in the care of children and young people, and in education and skills for learners of all ages. It regulates and inspects childcare and children's social care, and inspects the Children and Family Court Advisory Support Service (Cafcass), schools, colleges, initial teacher training, work-based learning and skills training, adult and community learning, and education and training in prisons and other secure establishments. It assesses council children's services, and inspects services for looked after children, safeguarding and child protection.
