Summary of key findings for parents

The provision meets requirements

- The childminder recognises the need to evaluate her practice, and to seek additional training needs to help improve her knowledge and skills further.
- The childminder has a clear understanding of the safeguarding and welfare requirements. She has attended relevant safeguarding training and is aware of how to report any concerns she may have about children's welfare to the relevant agencies.
- The childminder knows how to use observation and assessment to plan and provide activities for children to help them make the best possible progress. She has suitable toys and resources available, indoors and outdoors.
- The childminder understands the importance of establishing positive relationships with parents and other professionals, to ensure continuity in children's care and education.
- The childminder knows how to support children's behaviour to help prepare them for their next stage of learning. For example, she is aware of the need to develop positive relationships with children and to teach them to share and take turns.

There were no children present when this inspection took place. The findings in this report are based on evidence gathered from discussions with those who care for the children and an inspection of the premises, equipment and relevant documentation. Where there are no children present, no judgement is made on the quality of the early years provision as there is no reliable evidence on which to assess its impact on children. The report states whether the provider continues to meet the requirements of registration.

Inspection activities

- The inspector held discussions with the childminder about how she intends to deliver the safeguarding and welfare requirements, and the learning and development requirements.
- The inspector examined relevant documents, including mandatory certificates, and policies and procedures that she will use when caring for children.
