

Childminder Report

Inspection date	23 June 2016
Previous inspection date	2 March 2011

The quality and standards of the early years provision	This inspection:	Met
	Previous inspection:	Good	2

Summary of key findings for parents

The provision meets requirements

- The childminder understands how children learn and develop. She knows how to monitor their achievements and plan activities to help prepare them for the next stage in their learning, including school.
- The childminder is aware of her duty to safeguard children. She knows what to do if she is concerned about the welfare of a child, and keeps her knowledge up-to-date, such as through training.
- The childminder understands how to support children's physical well-being and good health. For example, she is aware of the importance of teaching children about being active and eating well.
- The childminder recognises the value of exchanging information with parents and carers to help provide consistent care and learning experiences for children.
- The childminder knows how to encourage children to behave well and develop their independence.

There were no children present when this inspection took place. The findings in this report are based on evidence gathered from discussions with those who care for the children and an inspection of the premises, equipment and relevant documentation. Where there are no children present, no judgement is made on the quality of the early years provision as there is no reliable evidence on which to assess its impact on children. The report states whether the provider continues to meet the requirements of registration.

Inspection activities

- The inspector discussed the childminder's understanding of the learning and development, and safeguarding and welfare requirements of the early years foundation stage.
- The inspector viewed the areas of the childminder's home she intends to use for childminding.
- The inspector looked at documentation, including records of suitability.
- The inspector discussed the childminder's self-evaluation and professional development.
