Summary of key findings for parents

The provision meets requirements

- The childminder understands how to provide a range of activities, resources and experiences to help children make progress in their learning.
- The childminder knows how to assess children's progress to identify gaps in learning. She recognises the importance of sharing this information with parents and other settings children attend to help strengthen continuity in learning.
- The childminder understands her role in child protection. For example, she knows what action to take if she has any welfare concerns.
- The childminder recognises how to support children to value themselves as individuals and how to help them to respect and value others.
- The childminder knows how to prioritise her ongoing professional development. For example, she attends regular training to help improve outcomes for children.
- The childminder appreciates how to promote children's health and well-being. She knows the importance of promoting healthy eating and providing children with daily access to physical activities outdoors.

There were no children present when this inspection took place. The findings in this report are based on evidence gathered from discussions with those who care for the children and an inspection of the premises, equipment and relevant documentation. Where there are no children present, no judgement is made on the quality of the early years provision as there is no reliable evidence on which to assess its impact on children. The report states whether the provider continues to meet the requirements of registration.

Inspection activities

- The inspector viewed all areas in the property used for childminding.
- The inspector discussed the requirements of the Early Years Foundation Stage with the childminder to assess her knowledge and understanding.
- The inspector discussed with the childminder how she delivers the educational programmes for children.
- The inspector sampled relevant documentation, including the childminder's policies and procedures.
- The inspector discussed with the childminder how she uses self-evaluation to develop her practice.

The childminder registered in 2014. She lives in West Thamesmead, in the London Borough of Greenwich. She provides care from Monday to Friday all year round. There were no children present at the time of the inspection.

This inspection was carried out by Ofsted under sections 49 and 50 of the Childcare Act 2006 on the quality and standards of provision that is registered on the Early Years Register. The registered person must ensure that this provision complies with the statutory framework for children's learning, development and care, known as the early years foundation stage.

Any complaints about the inspection or the report should be made following the procedures set out in the guidance 'Complaints procedure: raising concerns and making complaints about Ofsted', which is available from Ofsted's website: www.gov.uk/government/organisations/ofsted. If you would like Ofsted to send you a copy of the guidance, please telephone 0300 123 4234, or email enquiries@ofsted.gov.uk.

The Office for Standards in Education, Children's Services and Skills (Ofsted) regulates and inspects to achieve excellence in the care of children and young people, and in education and skills for learners of all ages. It regulates and inspects childcare and children's social care, and inspects the Children and Family Court Advisory Support Service (Cafcass), schools, colleges, initial teacher training, work-based learning and skills training, adult and community learning, and education and training in prisons and other secure establishments. It assesses council children's services, and inspects services for looked after children, safeguarding and child protection.
