Summary of key findings for parents

The provision meets requirements

- The childminder understands the local safeguarding procedures and regularly refreshes her training. She knows the signs and symptoms that would cause her concern. The childminder completes risk assessments of her home, garden and outings.
- The childminder understands how to help children gain the skills needed for school and for their next steps in learning. She understands the learning and development requirements, including the progress checks for two-year-old children.
- The childminder understands how to meet children's emotional and physical needs and help them to learn about healthy lifestyles.
- The childminder continues to build on her knowledge and skills, to continually improve her practice.
- The childminder understands how to work in partnership with parents and other professionals to promote children's individual care, learning and development needs.
- The childminder knows how to manage children's behaviour positively. She knows how to help children build relationships, be kind and to learn about the wider world.

There were no children present when this inspection took place. The findings in this report are based on evidence gathered from discussions with those who care for the children and an inspection of the premises, equipment and relevant documentation. Where there are no children present, no judgement is made on the quality of the early years provision as there is no reliable evidence on which to assess its impact on children. The report states whether the provider continues to meet the requirements of registration.

Inspection activities

- The inspector spoke with the childminder about the educational programmes and discussed the range of toys, equipment and resources available for children in the early years age group.
- The inspector looked at and discussed a range of records, including, policies and procedures with the childminder.
- The inspector checked documentary evidence of the childminder's suitability to work with children, including her qualifications and public liability insurance.
- The inspector discussed how the childminder evaluates her service.

This inspection was carried out by Ofsted under sections 49 and 50 of the Childcare Act 2006 on the quality and standards of provision that is registered on the Early Years Register. The registered person must ensure that this provision complies with the statutory framework for children's learning, development and care, known as the early years foundation stage.

Any complaints about the inspection or the report should be made following the procedures set out in the guidance 'Complaints procedure: raising concerns and making complaints about Ofsted', which is available from Ofsted's website: www.gov.uk/government/organisations/ofsted. If you would like Ofsted to send you a copy of the guidance, please telephone 0300 123 4234, or email enquiries@ofsted.gov.uk.

The Office for Standards in Education, Children's Services and Skills (Ofsted) regulates and inspects to achieve excellence in the care of children and young people, and in education and skills for learners of all ages. It regulates and inspects childcare and children's social care, and inspects the Children and Family Court Advisory Support Service (Cafcass), schools, colleges, initial teacher training, work-based learning and skills training, adult and community learning, and education and training in prisons and other secure establishments. It assesses council children's services, and inspects services for looked after children, safeguarding and child protection.
