Summary of key findings for parents

The provision does not meet requirements

- The childminder does not hold a valid paediatric first-aid qualification, as required. This is also a breach to the requirements of the Childcare Register.
- The childminder knows how to observe, assess and track children's progress to help prepare them for the next stage in learning, including nursery and school.
- The childminder understands her role to protect children from harm. She is aware of the signs and symptoms that may indicate that a child is at risk of harm and she has procedures for reporting any safeguarding concerns.
- The childminder understands how partnership working with parents and other settings can help her to meet children's care and learning needs.
- The childminder offers a welcoming environment and has a wide range of resources and play materials to engage their interest. She is aware of how to support children's healthy lifestyles and their positive behaviour.
- The childminder recognises the need to evaluate her service and include the views of parents and children to help her provide good quality outcomes for children.

There were no children present when this inspection took place. The findings in this report are based on evidence gathered from discussions with those who care for the children and an inspection of the premises, equipment and relevant documentation. Where there are no children present, no judgement is made on the quality of the early years provision as there is no reliable evidence on which to assess its impact on children. The report states whether the provider continues to meet the requirements of registration.

What the setting needs to do to improve further

To meet the requirements of the early years foundation stage and the Childcare Register the provider must:

	Due Date
■ obtain a valid paediatric first-aid qualification.	01/03/2017

Inspection activities

- The inspector discussed with the childminder how she intends to deliver the educational programmes for children.
- The inspector looked at policies and documents the childminder will use when caring for children to safeguard them and support their welfare.
- The inspector discussed self-evaluation and plans for improvement with the childminder.
- The inspector reviewed qualification certificates.

This inspection was carried out by Ofsted under sections 49 and 50 of the Childcare Act 2006 on the quality and standards of provision that is registered on the Early Years Register. The registered person must ensure that this provision complies with the statutory framework for children's learning, development and care, known as the early years foundation stage.

Any complaints about the inspection or the report should be made following the procedures set out in the guidance 'Complaints procedure: raising concerns and making complaints about Ofsted', which is available from Ofsted's website: www.gov.uk/government/organisations/ofsted. If you would like Ofsted to send you a copy of the guidance, please telephone 0300 123 4234, or email enquiries@ofsted.gov.uk.

The Office for Standards in Education, Children's Services and Skills (Ofsted) regulates and inspects to achieve excellence in the care of children and young people, and in education and skills for learners of all ages. It regulates and inspects childcare and children's social care, and inspects the Children and Family Court Advisory Support Service (Cafcass), schools, colleges, initial teacher training, work-based learning and skills training, adult and community learning, and education and training in prisons and other secure establishments. It assesses council children's services, and inspects services for looked after children, safeguarding and child protection.
