Summary of key findings for parents

The provision meets requirements

- The childminder is aware of potential hazards and knows how to reduce risks to children's safety. The childminder's home is free from hazards.
- The childminder understands child protection issues and the procedures to follow if she has any concerns about a child being at risk of harm. She also has an understanding of the safeguarding and welfare requirements to support children's health and well-being.
- The childminder understands how to use assessments to plan for children's learning and development, and provide play experiences to help children progress in all areas of learning.
- The childminder understands how to help children learn to behave responsibly and develop a positive attitude towards diversity.
- The childminder understands the importance of working in partnership with parents. She recognises the positive impact this could have on children's care and learning.
- The childminder has addressed previous recommendations. For example, she has attended training courses to develop her skills. She knows how to evaluate her practice to make improvements.

There were no children present when this inspection took place. The findings in this report are based on evidence gathered from discussions with those who care for the children and an inspection of the premises, equipment and relevant documentation. Where there are no children present, no judgement is made on the quality of the early years provision as there is no reliable evidence on which to assess its impact on children. The report states whether the provider continues to meet the requirements of registration.

Inspection activities

- The inspector held discussions with the childminder about her understanding of the requirements and childminding practice.
- The inspector went on a tour of the area of the home intended for childminding purposes with the childminder.
- The inspector sampled some of the childminder's documentation, which includes the training certificates, assessment records and policies.

This inspection was carried out by Ofsted under sections 49 and 50 of the Childcare Act 2006 on the quality and standards of provision that is registered on the Early Years Register. The registered person must ensure that this provision complies with the statutory framework for children's learning, development and care, known as the early years foundation stage.

Any complaints about the inspection or the report should be made following the procedures set out in the guidance 'Complaints procedure: raising concerns and making complaints about Ofsted', which is available from Ofsted's website: www.gov.uk/government/organisations/ofsted. If you would like Ofsted to send you a copy of the guidance, please telephone 0300 123 4234, or email enquiries@ofsted.gov.uk.

The Office for Standards in Education, Children's Services and Skills (Ofsted) regulates and inspects to achieve excellence in the care of children and young people, and in education and skills for learners of all ages. It regulates and inspects childcare and children's social care, and inspects the Children and Family Court Advisory Support Service (Cafcass), schools, colleges, initial teacher training, work-based learning and skills training, adult and community learning, and education and training in prisons and other secure establishments. It assesses council children's services, and inspects services for looked after children, safeguarding and child protection.
