Summary of key findings for parents

The provision meets requirements

- The childminder has a clear understanding of the early years foundation stage. She understands how to identify children's individual learning needs by using observations to track their progress. She knows how to plan activities which address the next steps in their learning and development.
- Safeguarding is effective. The childminder understands her responsibilities and knows what to do if she has concerns about a child's well-being or welfare.
- The childminder recognises the importance of working in partnership with parents and other professionals to help provide continuity for children's care and learning.
- The childminder has appropriate arrangements to help children to lead a healthy lifestyle, such as access to a healthy diet and daily exercise to support children's physical development.
- The childminder knows how to help children behave well. She explains that she will teach children to share, be considerate and respect others.
- The childminder understands the need to drive improvement through ongoing training and by reflecting on her practice. She keeps herself up to date with changes in legislation and seeks regular training courses to develop her skills and knowledge.

There were no children present when this inspection took place. The findings in this report are based on evidence gathered from discussions with those who care for the children and an inspection of the premises, equipment and relevant documentation. Where there are no children present, no judgement is made on the quality of the early years provision as there is no reliable evidence on which to assess its impact on children. The report states whether the provider continues to meet the requirements of registration.

Inspection activities

- The inspector discussed with the childminder how she intends to meet the safeguarding and welfare requirements.
- The inspector discussed with the childminder how she intends to deliver the educational programme for children.
- The inspector discussed record keeping, policies and procedures with the childminder.
- The inspector conducted a tour of the areas of the premises used for childminding.

This inspection was carried out by Ofsted under sections 49 and 50 of the Childcare Act 2006 on the quality and standards of provision that is registered on the Early Years Register. The registered person must ensure that this provision complies with the statutory framework for children's learning, development and care, known as the early years foundation stage.

Any complaints about the inspection or the report should be made following the procedures set out in the guidance 'Complaints procedure: raising concerns and making complaints about Ofsted', which is available from Ofsted's website: www.gov.uk/government/organisations/ofsted. If you would like Ofsted to send you a copy of the guidance, please telephone 0300 123 4234, or email enquiries@ofsted.gov.uk.

The Office for Standards in Education, Children's Services and Skills (Ofsted) regulates and inspects to achieve excellence in the care of children and young people, and in education and skills for learners of all ages. It regulates and inspects childcare and children's social care, and inspects the Children and Family Court Advisory Support Service (Cafcass), schools, colleges, initial teacher training, work-based learning and skills training, adult and community learning, and education and training in prisons and other secure establishments. It assesses council children's services, and inspects services for looked after children, safeguarding and child protection.
