

Childminder Report

Inspection date	12 January 2018
Previous inspection date	Not applicable

The quality and standards of the early years provision	This inspection:	Met
	Previous inspection:	Not applicable

Summary of key findings for parents

The provision meets requirements

- The childminder understands her responsibility to address any safeguarding concerns, and the need to report these to the appropriate agencies.
- The childminder's home is secure, free from hazards and includes the necessary facilities for children's comfort and safety. This promotes children's well-being.
- The childminder understands the learning and development requirements. She knows how to provide children with learning experiences across all areas of development, and undertake required assessments.
- The childminder understands the importance of working in partnerships with parents and other professionals, to support children's care and development.
- The childminder knows how to use self-evaluation to bring improvements to the service she offers and develop her own knowledge further.
- The childminder understands how to support children to develop positive self-identities, learn to be respectful of others and learn about expected behaviour.

There were no children present when this inspection took place. The findings in this report are based on evidence gathered from discussions with those who care for the children and an inspection of the premises, equipment and relevant documentation. Where there are no children present, no judgement is made on the quality of the early years provision as there is no reliable evidence on which to assess its impact on children. The report states whether the provider continues to meet the requirements of registration.

Inspection activities

- The inspector discussed with the childminder her understanding of the learning and development requirements, and the safeguarding and welfare requirements.
- The inspector looked at areas of the home used for minding purposes, and a range of play materials and equipment available for minded children.
- The inspector looked at a range of documentation maintained by the childminder, including policies and procedures she shares with parents.
- The inspector discussed with the childminder the systems used to self-evaluate her service and develop her knowledge further.

The childminder registered in 2015. She lives in Stoke Newington, in the London Borough of Hackney. She operates Monday to Friday from 8am to 6pm, throughout most of the year.

This inspection was carried out by Ofsted under sections 49 and 50 of the Childcare Act 2006 on the quality and standards of provision that is registered on the Early Years Register. The registered person must ensure that this provision complies with the statutory framework for children's learning, development and care, known as the early years foundation stage.

Any complaints about the inspection or the report should be made following the procedures set out in the guidance 'Complaints procedure: raising concerns and making complaints about Ofsted', which is available from Ofsted's website: www.gov.uk/government/organisations/ofsted. If you would like Ofsted to send you a copy of the guidance, please telephone 0300 123 4234, or email enquiries@ofsted.gov.uk.

The Office for Standards in Education, Children's Services and Skills (Ofsted) regulates and inspects to achieve excellence in the care of children and young people, and in education and skills for learners of all ages. It regulates and inspects childcare and children's social care, and inspects the Children and Family Court Advisory Support Service (Cafcass), schools, colleges, initial teacher training, work-based learning and skills training, adult and community learning, and education and training in prisons and other secure establishments. It assesses council children's services, and inspects services for looked after children, safeguarding and child protection.
