Summary of key findings for parents

The provision is good

- The manager has successfully addressed the actions and recommendations raised at the previous inspection. Staff have developed good partnerships with the host school and offer consistent care for children. Staff share information about children's learning and care needs.
- Partnerships with parents are effective. Parents express their satisfaction with the service provided. They comment how happy their children are at the club and that they request to attend extra sessions.
- Children arrive with enthusiasm and excitement, and show a strong sense of belonging. They have positive relationships with the warm and caring staff team. Children thoroughly enjoy the staff's company and are eager for them to join in their play.
- Staff include children in the setting of club rules, which helps them to understand what is expected of them. Children's behaviour is very good.

It is not yet outstanding because:

- Occasionally, staff do not make the most of opportunities to help promote children's understanding about how to keep themselves safe.
- Staff do not consistently encourage children to be involved in the planning of ongoing activities and play opportunities that reflect their changing interests.

What the setting needs to do to improve further

To further improve the quality of the early years provision the provider should:

- place a sharp focus on providing opportunities to increase children's understanding of how to keep themselves safe from potential risks
- consult children further to ensure they are fully involved in the ongoing planning of activities.

Inspection activities

- The inspector spoke to parents during the inspection and took account of their views.
- The inspector evaluated the range of activities on offer, in discussion with the manager.
- The inspector spoke to members of staff and children at appropriate times throughout the inspection.
- The inspector held a meeting with the manager. She looked at relevant documentation, such as the evidence of the suitability of staff working at the club.

Inspection findings

Effectiveness of leadership and management is good

The arrangements for safeguarding are effective. Recruitment procedures are rigorous and ensure that staff are fully checked and vetted. Staff are confident in recognising the possible signs of abuse and neglect. They know the correct procedures to follow should they have concerns about a child's welfare. Staff collect children from their classrooms to ensure they arrive safely at the club. Staff conduct daily checks to ensure the environment is safe and suitable. They receive good guidance and coaching. Staff are supported to access further training that helps them to build on their skills and knowledge. The manager uses feedback from parents, children and staff to make positive changes to the service offered. Children say that they really enjoy attending the club and look forward to playing with their friends, and taking part in physical activities and creative arts.

Quality of teaching, learning and assessment is good

The club has a stimulating and welcoming environment for children to play and relax. Children engage in craft activities. They enjoy practising their dexterity while using tools, such as scissors and pens. Staff take a genuine interest in children's ideas and creations, and talk to them about what they are doing. Children play board games that require them to count and make simple calculations, which builds on their growing mathematical skills. They develop a growing awareness of information technology and enjoy playing games against each other on a console. Children gain a good level of understanding about other people's similarities and differences. They enjoy learning about festivals traditional to other religious beliefs, such as Chinese New Year and Diwali.

Personal development, behaviour and welfare are good

The key-person system successfully supports the youngest children when they first start, helping them settle quickly. The experienced and well-qualified staff are positive role models and encourage children to be respectful to others. Children are kind to each other. They build strong relationships and develop attachments with children of differing ages. Older children happily engage in activities with younger children. This supports all children to form secure friendships. Children are praised for their achievements, which motivates them to persevere and try harder. Children's healthy lifestyles are promoted well. They have daily opportunities to play outside. Children enjoy running around, climbing, balancing, and playing football and games with the staff. Staff provide a varied menu of healthy and nutritious meals. They support children to complete small tasks for themselves. Children take pleasure in having the responsibility of preparing their own food.
