Summary of key findings for parents

This provision does not meet requirements

- The childminder has failed to address fully all actions raised at the previous inspection. The childminder's understanding and use of English is insufficient to ensure the well-being of children in her care. The childminder has not informed Ofsted about changes to household members so that appropriate suitability checks can be completed. She has not notified Ofsted of changes to her working hours. She does not have appropriate car insurance in place for when she transports the children she cares for. These are also breaches of the Childcare Register.
- The childminder does not have a sufficient understanding of most aspects of safeguarding and she fails to protect children appropriately. She demonstrates that she is not fully aware of signs and symptoms of possible abuse. These weaknesses are also a breach of the Childcare Register.
- The childminder's knowledge and understanding of how to support children's learning and development are extremely weak. She does not understand the purpose of observation and assessment. She does not know how to support children to make progress and prepare them for school.
- Since the last inspection, the childminder has shown some willingness to improve her practice. For example, she has attended training to develop her skills and to help her understand the early years curriculum. However, the childminder acknowledges that her use and understanding of English are weak. As a result, these weaknesses limit her understanding of her responsibility to meet the early years foundation stage requirements.
- The childminder understands how to promote children's good health, including by providing drinking water and snacks such as fresh fruit.

There were no children present when this inspection took place. The findings in this report are based on evidence gathered from discussions with those who care for the children and an inspection of the premises, equipment and relevant documentation. Where there are no children present, no judgement is made on the quality of the early years provision as there is no reliable evidence on which to assess its impact on children. The report states whether the provider continues to meet the requirements of registration.

What the setting needs to do to improve further

The provision is inadequate and Ofsted intends to take enforcement action:

We will issue a Welfare Requirements Notice requiring the provider to:

| | Due date |
| obtain a suitable knowledge and understanding of safeguarding procedures, and have an up-to-date knowledge of safeguarding issues, including the 'Prevent' duty guidance | 28/02/2019 |
| obtain a suitable knowledge and understanding of the responsibility to notify Ofsted of changes to members of the household and other significant events, such as a change of hours for childminding | 28/02/2019 |
| obtain appropriate car insurance that allows you to transport minded children | 28/02/2019 |
| obtain a sufficient understanding and use of English to ensure the well-being of minded children | 28/02/2019 |
| supply the relevant information to Ofsted about all persons living on the premises so that their suitability can be assessed. | 28/02/2019 |

To meet the requirements of the early years foundation stage and Childcare Register the provider must:

| | Due date |
|---|------------|
| take action to improve knowledge and understanding of the learning and development requirements, including how to monitor and assess children's development and plan for their continual progress | 28/02/2019 |
| provide parents with a written progress check for children aged between two and three years. | 28/02/2019 |

To further improve the quality of the early years provision the provider should:

- develop effective self-evaluation processes to identify and address weaknesses in practice and to improve outcomes for children.

Inspection activities

- The inspector talked to the childminder about how she intends to meet children's individual care needs.
- The inspector viewed the areas of the premises used for childminding with the childminder.
- The inspector looked at relevant documentation related to the provision for children's welfare and learning, along with evidence of the suitability of those living on the premises.
- The inspector discussed the childminder's methods for reviewing the quality and effectiveness of her provision.
- The inspector discussed with the childminder her knowledge and skills related to the early years foundation stage.
