Summary of key findings

This provision meets requirements

- The childminder explains how she will plan a curriculum to build on what children know and can do, to support them to learn skills in readiness for school. She discusses she will make links with children's parents to establish their starting points and share information with them to support them to stay involved in their child's learning.
- The childminder explains how she will promote healthy lifestyles and care practices. She knows how to support children to learn to manage their personal care needs. She explains she will offer children a broad range of enjoyable activities in her home and garden to help to promote children's physical development and gain fresh air and exercise.
- The childminder discusses how she will have high expectations for children's behaviour. She is clear about how she will help children to develop positive relationships. The childminder explains how she will incorporate sharing, turn taking and respect for others into children's daily activities.
- The childminder understands how to risk assess her home to ensure her premises are safe and suitable for children. She describes changes she would make to her environment to minimise risks to children.
- The childminder understands how to safeguard children. She knows the procedures to follow if she has any concerns about children's welfare. The childminder understands the actions to take if there are any allegations made against her or members of her household.
- The childminder has a clear approach to how she will manage children's behaviour. She confidently describes how she will be consistent in the messages and explains how she will role model good behaviour. She plans to teach children to respect each other and be aware of their own emotional well-being and the well-being of others.
- The childminder demonstrates her commitment to her professional development. She keeps her knowledge current and up to date. The childminder understands how to make use of external agencies to further support children with their learning and development needs.

There were no children in the early years age range present when this inspection took place. The findings in this report are based on evidence gathered from discussions with those who care for the children and an inspection of the premises, equipment and relevant documentation. Where there are no early years children present, no judgement is made on the quality of the early years provision as there is no reliable evidence on which to assess its impact on children. The report states whether the provider continues to meet the requirements of registration.

Inspection activities

- This was the first routine inspection the childminder received since the COVID-19 pandemic began. The inspector discussed the impact of the pandemic with the provider and has taken that into account in their evaluation of the provider.
- The childminder showed the inspector the premises. She discussed how she would ensure they are safe and suitable and changes she would make if children were attending.
- The inspector and childminder discussed her understanding of the learning and development and safeguarding and welfare requirements.
- The inspector held discussions with the childminder about her childcare practices throughout the inspection to establish her understanding of how to safeguard children.
- The inspector sampled a range of relevant documentation, including the childminder's public liability insurance and training certificates.
- The inspector verified evidence of suitability for the childminder and the adults working and living on the premises.

We carried out this inspection under sections 49 and 50 of the Childcare Act 2006 on the quality and standards of provision that is registered on the Early Years Register. The registered person must ensure that this provision complies with the statutory framework for children's learning, development and care, known as the early years foundation stage.
