What does the school do well and what does it need to do better?

The school's precisely crafted curriculum is carefully implemented. It meets pupils' learning needs in every way. From the moment children join the school, they benefit from a curriculum that is aspirational and highly effective. The curriculum is skilfully sequenced so that pupils build their knowledge securely over time. This begins in the pre-school, where a strong foundation is created for future learning.

Assessment is used exceedingly well to check that the curriculum is learned and remembered by pupils. Staff are adept at identifying misconceptions swiftly. They use this information to adapt future learning. Staff revisit learning to help the most important knowledge stick in pupils' memory. As a result, pupils across the school learn exceptionally well. They acquire an impressive depth of knowledge across all subjects. Pupils achieve exceptionally well in all areas.

The school ensures that reading is at the very heart of the curriculum. From pre-school, knowledgeable, highly trained staff develop children's communication and language. Children learn phonics when they start school. Pupils use their phonics knowledge effectively to blend and read unfamiliar words. Staff provide rapid support for those who need to catch up. No pupils are left behind. Many pupils enthuse about how reading brings learning to life and helps them to learn new words. Across the school, pupils learn ambitious new vocabulary.

The school is highly ambitious for pupils with special educational needs and/or disabilities (SEND). There is a strong culture of inclusion. The school takes all possible steps to identify and meet pupils' needs quickly. Staff are knowledgeable. They expertly adapt plans and learning activities for pupils. This means pupils with SEND learn the same impressive curriculum as their peers. These pupils make exceptional progress from their starting points.

The provision for pupils' personal development is expertly woven through the curriculum. Pupils are taught how to be responsible, global citizens. They have a deep-rooted knowledge of wider religions and fundamental British values. For example, pupils contribute to the school's India partnership and meet with inspirational visitors. This develops an excellent understanding of equality and diversity. As a result, the school develops compassionate and responsible young citizens.

The trust and governors hold leaders to account effectively. They have a firm grasp of the school's strengths and priorities for development. Together, the trust and governors ensure that staff are well looked after and their workload is considered. Morale is buoyant across the dedicated staff team. As a result, pupils thrive at this exceptional school.
