What is it like to attend this school?

Ashley College is an inclusive and welcoming environment. Pupils are proud of their school. They appreciate the way adults care for them. Most pupils have not had a successful experience in their previous schools. The school has highly effective transition programmes that helps pupils settle in quickly. Parents and carers speak highly of the school.

The school has high expectations for pupils' achievement and behaviour, including those with special educational needs and/or disabilities (SEND). Pupils live up to these aspirations. They are respectful of adults and each other. Pupils take pride in their achievements. Pupils flourish in the calm learning atmosphere. They enjoy making new friends with no bullying. They participate in many indoor or outdoor games and sports together.

The school prepares pupils, exceedingly well, for their future lives. The bespoke range of programmes, careers advice and activities help pupils secure further training and work experience. Pupils gain confidence and become more independent. If they are struggling to learn or have disagreements with others, staff respond quickly to help resolve problems or concerns.

What does the school do well and what does it need to do better?

The school has developed an ambitious curriculum designed to meet the wide range of pupils' interests and needs. Pupils of all ages study a wide range of subjects. The essential knowledge and skills required across the curriculum are carefully planned by staff. Many pupils have significant gaps in their learning due to absence from previous schools. Teachers use assessment strategies skilfully to support pupils to understand and address missing knowledge.

Adaptions to curriculum plans ensure that pupils catch up and build their knowledge and skills rapidly. The school identifies and meets the needs of pupils with SEND. It supports pupils tutored at home or in the specialist mental health unit, effectively.

Leaders have prioritised the development of reading across the curriculum and for pleasure. Pupils have confidence to use a wide range of texts across the curriculum and appreciate many styles of literature.

Pupils are highly motivated to learn. Staff apply the school's behaviour systems consistently. They are very well trained to meet pupils' different needs so that lessons continue uninterrupted. The school provides highly effective support to pupils who need help to sustain their improvements in attendance. Leaders ensure that pupils' attendance is a high priority. They support pupils and their families to overcome any barriers to good attendance. Attendance and punctuality information is carefully analysed to understand the main reasons for any absences from school. As a result, pupils' attendance improves significantly over time. This allows for some pupils to return to mainstream schools or move to specialist schools.

Older pupils achieve many academic and vocational qualifications. This prepares them well to move on to further education, training or employment. Pupils take pride in these achievements. They spoke with enthusiasm about their improvements in subjects, such as English, mathematics and science.

The school provides many opportunities for pupils to expand their interests and experiences to support their personal development. For example, pupils learn to climb at the climbing wall and develop music performance and composition skills. Pupils learn about healthy relationships, including sexual health in an age-appropriate way. They benefit from an extensive careers programme. Pupils are supported to become active citizens through charity days. They also learn about the community they live in. Staff encourage pupils to develop their knowledge of different faiths and fundamental British values.

Leaders have robust systems to evaluate the curriculum, pupil safety and outcomes. Members of the management committee have a detailed strategic oversight of the school. They provide suitable challenge to school leaders. Staff workload and well-being are a priority, and they feel well supported and cared for.
