Introduction

This inspection was carried out by three additional inspectors. The inspectors visited 19 lessons and observed 11 teachers in their classrooms. The inspectors held meetings with governors, staff, groups of pupils and a group of parents and carers. They observed the school's work and looked at a range of documentation, including data about pupils' progress and attainment, the school's planning documents, policies, procedures and records and pupils' work in their books. They reviewed information provided by parents and carers in 38 completed questionnaires. They also took into account the views pupils and staff expressed in their questionnaires.

The inspection team reviewed many aspects of the school's work. It looked in detail at the following:

- the progress pupils made during the last school year and how well they are progressing in the current year
- the effectiveness of teaching and the curriculum in building pupils' skills year-on-year, helping to ensure that standards continue to rise
- the impact of leadership and management on the drive to raise standards and on achieving the best possible outcomes for pupils
- how well provision in the Early Years Foundation Stage enables children to progress in their learning and development.

Information about the school

This large school serves an urban residential area. The proportion of pupils who have special educational needs and/or disabilities is above average and the proportion entitled to free school meals is well above the national average. Most pupils are White British, with an increasing proportion from other heritages, including a small number of new entrants who speak English as an additional language. The school provides a breakfast club every day during term time and a range of after-school activities.

A number of temporary changes in staffing and leadership took place during the last school year, resulting from fixed-term leave of absence of key staff members, including the headteacher. The headteacher and a senior staff member returned to school at the start of the autumn term.

The school holds the Healthy Schools Gold Award and the Activemark as well as Investors in People status.

Main findings

The school provides a satisfactory standard of education for its pupils, with good provision for their welfare and pastoral care. With the support of its local authority, the school has begun decisively to address issues around the very low attainment outcomes that have prevailed for the past five years. Improvements in provision are now starting to show a positive impact and standards have begun to rise. The overall rate of pupils' progress has improved considerably during the current year and attainment across the school, evidenced in pupils' current work and in class assessment records for the autumn and spring terms, is now broadly average. Pupils' positive attitudes to school are demonstrated in their good behaviour, their improved attendance and their willingness to take on responsibilities and play a part in decision-making.

The school's leaders responded constructively to the challenge presented by disruptions to the continuity of staffing, with senior staff taking on temporary roles of responsibility during the last school year. This has broadened the experience of the senior leadership team and has strengthened teamwork across the school. The pace of school improvement has increased with the return of the headteacher, but the school has yet to ensure that improvements become firmly embedded and that the upward trend continues. For example, although in many lessons pupils progress well and show they are becoming increasingly confident learners, a significant proportion of the teaching that was seen was satisfactory, and progress was slower in those lessons. The school knows that this is not good enough and is working to eliminate weaker teaching through regular and more rigorous monitoring. The guidance provided to pupils through marking and the use of individual learning targets, although an effective feature of some teachers' work, is not yet of consistently high quality across all the classes. Attainment is not as high in reading as it is in writing in some year groups and the school is aware that this imbalance must be corrected.

The headteacher has created a strong team ethos, with a clear focus on school improvement. Self-evaluation is largely accurate and is based on systematic analysis. Teachers use the information gained from progress reviews each term to ensure that they give pupils the support they need. This is contributing well to raising attainment. The governing body has helped to steer the school through difficult times, but problems in recruiting and retaining governors have resulted in a heavy workload for a small group of long-serving members. The school sets challenging and ambitious improvement targets. Staff and governors are involved through the year in reviewing how well the school is doing. All of this, together with the skills and talents of staff and leaders, means that the school has satisfactory capacity to continue to improve.

What does the school need to do to improve further?

- Reinforce the drive to raise attainment, by:
  - ensuring that the quality of teaching is consistently good or better, through a sharp monitoring focus on the quality of pupils' learning
  - ensuring consistency in the quality of marking, so that pupils are always given clear guidance about how to improve their work
  - ensuring that learning targets are used with consistent effectiveness, so that pupils in all year groups have an accurate understanding of how well they are doing.
- Improve progress and attainment in reading, especially in those year groups where it is lagging behind writing, by increasing the range and effectiveness of teaching strategies that are used.
- Strengthen governance by ensuring that vacancies on the governing body are filled by the end of the current school year.
- About 40% of the schools whose overall effectiveness is judged satisfactory may receive a monitoring visit by an Ofsted inspector before their next section 5 inspection.

Outcomes for individuals and groups of pupils*3

Pupils apply themselves and make satisfactory overall progress in lessons, with good progress seen in the best lessons. They show interest and enthusiasm for learning and are keen to share their ideas and contribute to discussions. They use information and communication technology with growing confidence. They enjoy working with a partner or in a group and this is helping them to become more confident learners. The rate of pupils' progress has increased rapidly during the current year and they are now on track to reach appropriately challenging improvement targets by the end of the year in reading, writing and mathematics. Pupils' current work matches expectations for average attainment in most areas of English and mathematics. Although overall attainment in reading is improving, in some year groups it is lower than attainment in writing. Boys' attainment has risen in most subject areas and the gap between boys' and girls' outcomes has now started to close. The progress of pupils with special educational needs and/or difficulties and those learning English as an additional language is satisfactory in relation to their starting points and abilities.

Pupils show good awareness of issues around personal safety. They have a good understanding of the factors that contribute to healthy living and can discuss these confidently. They enjoy taking responsibility, for example, as influential school councillors. They form good relationships with each other and with the adults in school and they say they are confident that help is on hand if they encounter any problems. Their improving basic skills are helping to prepare them for the next stage in their education. They show an understanding of the sound moral values the school promotes, reflected in their good behaviour and considerate, thoughtful attitudes. The curriculum is helping them to achieve a growing awareness of cultures beyond their own direct experience. Attendance is greatly improved and is now average; pupils at risk of poor attendance are identified and supported.

How effective is the provision?

The overall quality of teaching is satisfactory, although some good and outstanding practice was also seen. Teachers set high expectations for effort and behaviour and pupils respond positively to this. Where teaching is most effective, lessons are planned to take the range of learners' needs into account, the pace of learning is brisk, the level of challenge good and teachers use questioning well to extend pupils' thinking. In weaker lessons, activities are sometimes over-directed by the teacher, limiting opportunities for independent learning by pupils. Individual learning targets are used effectively in some classes, but this is not consistent across the school, so pupils do not always understand clearly how well they are doing. Similarly, the quality of marking varies, so pupils are not always provided with the advice they need to improve their work. Teaching assistants contribute well to pupils' learning, especially those who have additional needs.

The curriculum is currently being revised to ensure that it reflects pupils' interests and engages them fully. Work in progress includes improving opportunities for pupils to practise and develop their basic skills through work across different areas of learning. This is starting to contribute well to raising attainment. Additional strategies aimed at raising attainment in reading have not yet been as consistently effective as expected in all the year groups and the school is currently reviewing its provision in this area. The curriculum is enriched by opportunities for pupils to develop skills in sports, the performing arts and a modern foreign language. Further enhancement is provided by visiting specialists, themed events and visits to places of interest. Well planned provision for pupils with special educational needs and/or disabilities ensures they enjoy full access to learning and social inclusion.

Pastoral care is good and the school works sensitively to support vulnerable pupils and their families. This is helping to break down barriers to learning and progress that a number of pupils encounter. The school's strenuous efforts to promote and support good attendance have now begun to impact and attendance figures have improved significantly. The popular breakfast club gets the day off to a happy start and after-school provision includes a range of well-attended clubs and activities.

How effective are leadership and management?

Governors and staff share the headteacher's vision and resolve to take the school forward and to achieve improved outcomes for its pupils. Senior staff and subject leaders help to ensure quality and this contributes positively to ongoing school improvement. Sharply-defined and appropriately challenging targets have been set for attainment in each year group in each school term. This means that the information gained at progress reviews at the end of each term gives an accurate and detailed picture of how well the school is doing. The progress reviews enable the school to identify pupils who are underachieving and staff are becoming increasingly effective at providing the support those pupils who need to speed their progress up. Teaching quality is monitored systematically, but without a sharp enough focus on learning outcomes, and so, although the impact of monitoring is largely positive, a residue of satisfactory teaching has not yet been eliminated. The responsibilities of governance are shared between a small core group as vacancies remain unfilled and this reduces the effectiveness of a knowledgeable and supportive governing body. The school complies well with statutory requirements for safeguarding, health and safety and child protection through well-managed procedures and an ongoing review of their effectiveness. Its inclusive ethos promotes equal opportunities satisfactorily. The school contributes to community cohesion through partnerships in its community, with the high school and with a range of agencies that support pupils' health, welfare, social and learning needs. Parents and carers expressed positive views about the school and improving home-school cooperation is reflected in improved attendance figures in the current year.

Early Years Foundation Stage

Children's skills on entry to Nursery are often well below expectations for their age. They make satisfactory overall progress. By the end of the Reception Year, although some children's attainment is below expected levels for their age in some areas of literacy and numeracy, they have gained positive attitudes to school and are happy, interested learners. The quality of teaching is satisfactory, with an appropriate balance of activities initiated by the children themselves and those led and directed by adults. Staff provide a range of activities that are interesting and fun for the children. Relationships are caring and warm and consequently children are happy and secure in the setting. Provision to ensure their welfare is good and meets requirements. Assessments are based on careful observations of the children in their activities and the information is used effectively to plan for their individual learning needs. Although relationships with parents and carers are positive, they are not yet involved enough as partners in their children's learning and assessment. The learning environment is bright and welcoming and the outdoor area has been developed well to support active learning through play. The setting is led and managed satisfactorily and the staff team work together effectively to promote the children's learning and well-being. Provision is monitored regularly and this supports ongoing improvements. Links with external agencies help to support the progress of children with additional learning, language or social needs.

Views of parents and carers

Around one eighth of parents and carers responded to the questionnaire. The majority of those who responded said they agree or strongly agree that they are happy with their children's experience at the school. This is in line with the inspection team's judgement on the school's satisfactory overall effectiveness.

Responses from parents and carers to Ofsted's questionnaire

Ofsted invited all the registered parents and carers of pupils registered at Crosslee Community Primary School to complete a questionnaire about their views of the school.

In the questionnaire, parents and carers were asked to record how strongly they agreed with 13 statements about the school.

The inspection team received 38 completed questionnaires by the end of the on-site inspection. In total, there are 305 pupils registered at the school.

The table above summarises the responses that parents and carers made to each statement. The percentages indicate the proportion of parents and carers giving that response out of the total number of completed questionnaires. Where one or more parents and carers chose not to answer a particular question, the percentages will not add up to 100%.

Glossary

What inspection judgements mean

Grade	Judgement	Description
Grade 1	Outstanding	These features are highly effective. An outstanding school provides exceptionally well for its pupils' needs.
Grade 2	Good	These are very positive features of a school. A school that is good is serving its pupils well.
Grade 3	Satisfactory	These features are of reasonable quality. A satisfactory school is providing adequately for its pupils.
Grade 4	Inadequate	These features are not of an acceptable standard. An inadequate school needs to make significant improvement in order to meet the needs of its pupils. Ofsted inspectors will make further visits until it improves.

Overall effectiveness of schools inspected between September 2007 and July 2008

Type of school	Overall effectiveness judgement (percentage of schools)
	Outstanding	Good	Satisfactory	Inadequate
Nursery schools	39	58	3	0
Primary schools	13	50	33	4
Secondary schools	17	40	34	9
Sixth forms	18	43	37	2
Special schools	26	54	18	2
Pupil referral units	7	55	30	7
All schools	15	49	32	5

New school inspection arrangements were introduced on 1 September 2009. This means that inspectors now make some additional judgements that were not made previously.

The data in the table above were reported in The Annual Report of Her Majesty's Chief Inspector of Education, Children's Services and Skills 2007/08.

Percentages are rounded and do not always add exactly to 100. Secondary school figures include those that have sixth forms, and sixth form figures include only the data specifically for sixth form inspection judgements.

Common terminology used by inspectors

Achievement:	the progress and success of a pupil in their learning, development or training.
Attainment:	the standard of the pupils' work shown by test and examination results and in lessons.
Capacity to improve:	the proven ability of the school to continue improving. Inspectors base this judgement on what the school has accomplished so far and on the quality of its systems to maintain improvement.
Leadership and management:	the contribution of all the staff with responsibilities, not just the headteacher, to identifying priorities, directing and motivating staff and running the school.
Learning:	how well pupils acquire knowledge, develop their understanding, learn and practise skills and are developing their competence as learners.
Overall effectiveness:	inspectors form a judgement on a school's overall effectiveness based on the findings from their inspection of the school. The following judgements, in particular, influence what the overall effectiveness judgement will be. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>■ The school's capacity for sustained improvement.</li> <li>■ Outcomes for individuals and groups of pupils.</li> <li>■ The quality of teaching.</li> <li>■ The extent to which the curriculum meets pupils' needs, including where relevant, through partnerships.</li> <li>■ The effectiveness of care, guidance and support.</li> </ul>
Progress:	the rate at which pupils are learning in lessons and over longer periods of time. It is often measured by comparing the pupils' attainment at the end of a key stage with their attainment when they started.

This letter is provided for the school, parents and carers to share with their children. It describes Ofsted's main findings from the inspection of their school.

24 March 2010

Dear Pupils

Inspection of Crosslee Community Primary School, Manchester M9 6TG

Thank you for making the inspection team so welcome when we visited your school.

As you know, we came to see how well the school is doing and how you are all getting on with your learning. These are some of the things we found.

Crosslee is a satisfactory school. It is also an improving school and a happy place of learning. You are well-behaved and polite young people. The adults in school look after you well. You work hard in your lessons, you enjoy your learning and you get on well with each other and with the adults in school. The Early Years Foundation Stage gets your education off to a happy start; your learning and progress are improving rapidly as you move up through the school and standards are rising in every year group. Well done, everybody – keep up the good work! I was so pleased to hear about how much you enjoy school. You also told us that you think the after-school activities are very good.

There is still some work to be done to make Crosslee the best school it can possibly be. These are the things I have asked the headteacher and the staff to do.

- Make sure that all teaching is good or better, so that you learn and progress well in every lesson.
- Improve the way they use targets and improve marking so that you know more about how well you are doing and about what you need to do to improve your work.
- Find more ways to help you all to improve your reading and to make as much progress as you are already making with your writing.
- Make sure that all the vacant places on the governing body are filled this year. You can help with all of this by continuing to do your best and by continuing to be happy learners.

With my very best wishes for the future.

Yours sincerely

Diane Auton

Lead inspector
